Telstar girls take 2004 Class C Field Hockey title

After a 25-year drought, the Telstar High School field hockey team won the Class C State Championship Saturday.

The Rebels defeated Stearns High School by a touchdown, 6-0, in a game played at Fitzpatrick Stadium in Portland. Telstar scored early and often in the first half, tallying goals at the rate of about one every five minutes. By halftime, they had six — believed to be the most ever scored by a single team in a state championship game.

That was the end of all scoring, as coach Gail Wight put in substitutes for much of the second half. A total of 21 girls saw playing time in the

The stadium's artificial turf — which the Rebels prepared for by practicing at Bates College allowed them to show off their stickwork skills, Wight said.

The consistent surface is a sharp contrast to the rough natural field at Telstar.

"The turf really made them shine," said Wight. "They showed what a really good team they are." At Bates, the team worked on passing the ball and stopping it with "soft hands," Wight said, in order to compensate for the speedy surface.

Stearns, by contrast, tried to play 'hit and run' sending the ball a long distance and then trying to catch up with it.

But a Rebel would always be there to intercept it. "Nothing got past the defensive backs (Jillian Kimball, Lindsey Hart, Jessie Farrington and Liz Rosenberg)," Wight said.
Stearns had only one shot on goal the whole game, and it came early in the first period. Stephanie Tripp and Heather Gionet shared goaltending duties, as they have all season.

At the offensive end, Rosenberg had two goals and Farrington, Kayla Mills, Bailey Davis and Mallory Brown each had one. Brown had three assists and Mills and Bailey one each.

By half-time, the team wasn't talking about scor-

Local Red Sox fans are also celebrating

After a lifetime of listening to Red Sox games on the radio, the moment 77-year-old Alice McInnis of Woodstock had been waiting for finally arrived at 11:37 p.m. last Wednesday.

First baseman Doug Mientkiewicz squeezed the ball for the final out against the St. Louis Cardinals, and Boston had a World Series champion-

For McInnis, the feeling was one of overwhelming relief.

"I didn't want them to have to come back to Boston. And I wanted [pitcher Derek] Lowe to win because he had had a tough season. For him to shut them out - it was wonderful," she said.

Then her phone started ringing. Her children were calling from Florida, Vermont and New Hampshire. "Mother, we're so glad for you," they told her.

After the phone calls, she said, "I had to stay up and lis-

"I can't just sit and watch." she said, so she lets the radio for her while she stitches away on her sewing machine. She made an exception last

Selectmen want the state to look at flooding problem in the Route 26 flats

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The Bethel Board of Selectmen will ask the Maine Department of Transportation to take a closer look at the flooding problem in the Gaudreau Flats" stretch of Route 26.

The flooding is a perennial springtime problem for residents of the area.

"A lot of people down there are pretty dependent on Geoff Gaudreau to reduce flooding somewhat during spring run-Dutch Dresser, chairman of the board, said Monday evening.

The flooding concerns surfaced now in part because of a proposed 14-lot, 32-acre subdivision located along the Taylor-Smith Road.

Al Cressy, chairman of the Planning Board, told the selectmen that several residents of the area had worried the subdivision would contribute to runoff - and flooding - in the area. He was taking the matter to the selectmen, Cressy said. because off-site runoff issues are not within the Planning Board's purview, but he thought the selectmen might be willing to ask MDOT to look further into the matter.

H.E. Sargent has the contract for the $7.4 million improvement project, which will be completed next year. The project included widening, straightening, drainage and curbing work. Much of the drainage and curbing effort has taken place in the village of West Bethel.

"There's still more to do." said Emerson Merrill, MDOT's construction manager.

A particular problem spot is around the former G&T Store, in a low-lying area on the corner of Route 2 and the Flat Road. "There's just no way to get the water out of there," said Merrill.

Curbing placed near the corner should keep the water from draining off Route 2 and the Flat Road onto the store property, he said.

The wat summer also created a few headaches for the contractor, Merrill said. because of the timing of many of the rainstorms.

CHRISTMAS FOR FAMILIES, 2004

To the Editor:

As hard as it is to believe, we are once again approaching the holiday season and Christmas for Families volunteers are looking for donations and help. Christmas for Families tries to help as many children of all ages as well as their parents in the SAD44 area.

We know that this is a stressful time for all of us, but some more than others, and that is why we are here. Last year we assisted 172 children, 57 families.

For the past couple of years people have been asking about adopting a family. Let us know what size family and we try to match them up. We don't give out names or addresses but we give ages, sizes and anything else we have for information that might be important. Anyone interested in adopt-a-family, or anyone wanting to donate to this project, please call me at 836-3600 or 836-3663 and leave a message, I will be in North Carolina seeing my new grand-baby and family Nov. 14 through Nov. 28, but please leave a message and she I send out applications or return phone calls to present information when she gets back.

Please know that this is all in the strictest confidence, even those who get adopted.

Our goal is to complete this project by Dec. 16. We are also doing fundraisers such as selling calendars, a benefit bingo, raffle and food sale at Jackson-Silver Post 68 in Locke Mills on Dec. 5 at 1 p.m. Doors will open at 11 a.m.

OFFENDED

To the Editor:

In response to Kathy Berberion's letter titled "The Bumpkin Factor," I must say I was offended.

She stated voting against bear baiting ... is merely one step along the ethical high road, and in so doing Mainers will take a big step up from the unfortunate, but long-standing image as a bunch of wild-eyed, gun-totin' backwoodsmen."

I am a gun-totin' backwoodsman and proud of it. The wildeyed part is up to the observer, I guess.

We are the descendents of the people who founded this country, and we are the people who continue to defend this country. Losing the image of gun-totin' backwoodsmen is not a step up, but a step down to the level of the sissified, girly man city slickers who have moved out into the country and now infest so many of our towns.

What gets me wild-eyed is someone moving into my rural environment and calling me a Bumpkin, or saying changing my way of life to become compatible with their standards is a Lady, gun-totin' backwoodsmen and real Mainers who will accept you if you choose to join us and let you live your life your way if you choose not to, but we will not try to force you to change your lifestyle to take a step up. I guess we haven't become civilized enough to be that arrogant.

I would like to welcome all Newry mothers and former Newry Mothers Club members to our Gathering of Mothers, Tuesday, Nov. 9, at the Newry Town Office at 7 p.m. There will be Voting refreshments and gifts for all in attendance.

Our hope is to rekindle the life of the Newry Mothers Club. I have fond memories of the haunted house at the Poplar Tavern, thanks to the efforts of the Mothers Club. And now, as a mother of two. I want to create warm memories for them and to give them a feeling of community that they can be proud of.

So please join us, come share your memories and ideas with us. Help us breathe new life into a nearly forgotten gift for the children of Newry.

visions, not lands outside the subdivision," Cressy said, "we thought it would be important to convey the concerns of the interested citizens, and perhaps you'd be willing to pass along those concerns.

MDOT is already aware of the flooding problem, Cressy said, "but doesn't appear ready to do too much about it at this time." Selectman Jack Cross objected to any attempt to blame the flooding problems on the subdivision. "That has flooded for years and years and years," he said. "Are they trying to blame this on the subdivision? This subdivision shouldn't have anything to do with it. This brook has always done that."

But Cressy replied that the Planning Board's role was to see that the subdivision did not make the problems below it worse.

"As you say they've had flooding down there for years," he said. "Our job is to see that no additional water flows from the subdivision down into that area."

The selectmen ultimately agreed to have Town Manager Scott Cole write to MDOT about the matter. But Dresser was skeptical about the state agency's willingness to tackle the matter. "MDOT has been only somewhat responsive to the [Parkway traffic light] question over time. Are they apt to be any different about this?"

That, Cole said, was hard to

"I don't know if there's a ready made solution to the problem there, he said. "Idon't know what one would change in that drainage area."

Residents argue that one factor contributing to the problem is a state-maintained culvert that is prone to plugging and freezing.

"There's certainly a reason that culvert backs up," Bennett said, " — either it's not big enough or it's not properly placed."

Workers are now placing rip-rap, berms, hay, mulch and netting on the site to stabilize it for the winter, he said.

His baby sister, 11-monthold Andrea Bennett, is being treated at Maine Medical Center in Portland and her injuries are not considered life threatening. The baby was pulled from the burning home by a neighbor, Raymond Reese, who reached through a window and pulled the child's crib close enough to grab the child. The boy was located in his bedroom by Oxford police officer Alan Coffin, who entered the room through a window. Coffin and the parents of the children — Kathy Bennett and Neil Gephart — were treated and released for smoke inhalation.

WARREN- The narrow escape of a father and son from Massachusetts whose ATV was struck by an oncoming train points up the need for off-road vehicle operators to steer clear of railroad tracks, railroad officials said. Lyle Morris, 42, of Woburn, Mass., and his son Luke, 14, escaped injury Oct. 23 when they leaped about 15 feet from a railroad bridge after their all-terrain vehicle got stuck on the track and an excursion train was bearing down at 45 mph. None of the train's 60 passengers or three crew members were injured. The seriousness of this accident can't be overemphasized," said Jon Shute, general manager of Maine Eastern Railroad. The ATV `came free when we hit it," said Shute, noting that the train could have derailed if the ATV had remained stuck on the track. Instead, the vehicle went flying, landing 120 feet away. Lyle Morris was charged with a civil violation of operating his vehicle on railroad tracks, the Knox County Sheriff's Department said. The ATV was totaled in the crash. Damage to the train totaled more than $10,000.

Lecture series will explore non-traditional healing practices

(Note: Following is further information on a lecture series about non-traditional healing practices introduced in last week's Citizen.)

A lectures series entitled "Bridges to Health and Healing" will take place the second Friday of each month from 7 to 8 p.m. at the Crescent Park School cafeteria.

The series will be presented by psychotherapists, holistic counselors, massage and Reiki therapists and shamanic practitioners. The group seeks to provide an organized way for people to learn how traditional and non-traditional healing methods can work together.

The first lecture is scheduled for Friday, Nov 12. The lectures will be free to the public (donations accepted).

Caro Poirier MSW, LCSW, a holistic psychotherapist, will lead off the lecture series with "The Spirit of Self-Healing." Poirier will describe how her own medical crisis led her to discover and develop her own inner capabilities for healing through shamanism.

In her role as a holistic psychotherapist, she offers "spiritually-based practices in a clinical context," she said. The lecturers in the following months will be:

December: Dr. Gary Stuer will speak on "Relaxing the Body, Mind and Spirit with Meditation and Reiki."

"I'll discuss the basics of meditation and its effects on the body," he said. "Using guided meditations I will introduce a couple of easy techniques that can be used immediately. The idea that meditation is only for gurus and is difficult to learn is incorrect. Anyone can incorporate meditation into their daily life.

"I'll also talk briefly about Reiki, an ancient healing technique that is becoming more mainstream in many hospitals across the country. It's most commonly offered before and after surgical procedures for relaxation, for pain management, and in hospice care, helping patients make an easier transition," he said.

January: Janet Willie, massage therapist, will speak on 'Journey Through Depression." She will discuss additional resources available to help people through times of despair, such as art, dream and movement therapy.

February: Kary Zywiec, D.Ed., a certified holistic counselor in Gorham, N.H., will speak on "What's Up with Crystals?" Gems and crystals have different metaphysical properties, she said, and are associated with various energy process points in the body. "Clear quartz and quartz-based gems generate the most energy, and are most often used for metaphysical healing and meditations," she said.

March: Cate Journey, a psychotherapist and energy practitioner, will speak on "The Journey Home." She will describe how to "discover your authentic self through the art of archetypal storytelling," she said.

"Archetypes are universal themes that flow through our individual lives," she said. "Archetypal storytelling is akin to a good snapshot. In the hands of a good photographer, the artist can capture a good likeness with his camera, and so too, a good archetypal storyteller can capture a good likeness of your authentic self."

The "Bridges" lectures may expand to a seminar in the spring, Stuer said. The practitioners will also work on establishing a group identity, and farther down the road, said Stuer, "we hope to forge a partnership with traditional healthcare practitioners.'

When I was a teenager brand new dark-blue denim blue jeans were so "in". They were a bit on the stiff side, but that was part of what made them so cool.

Apparently stiff wasn't quite as cool as the years went by because pre-washed blue jeans became the "in" thing. Certainly pre-washed jeans are much softer and more comfortable than the never-beenwashed-before variety.

From pre-washed came stonewashed, which are just a little bit softer and ever so slightly faded. I'm not sure what they mean by stonewashed because I find it highly unlikely that the blue jean manufacturers employ a bunch of people to go down to the local creek and bang the blue jeans against the rocks. It is much more likely that the denim material is washed at a higher water temperature to achieve the look and has actually not been in contact with any stones at all. But, stonewashed has a nice sound to it and most people probably don't care if their jeans have ever been banged with rocks.

A few years ago pre-tattered blue jeans were the rage with the teenagers. Blue jeans were made to look like the ones I used to throw out. Once the bottoms started to unravel and the knees had no place left to iron on a patch, in the trash they went. Who would have thought those denim rags would become the "in" look and people actually paid good money for them.

Now there is a new look for blue jeans - severely faded. The other day I was at a department store and there in the ladies' department was a rack filled with blue jeans with faded fronts. I don't know about the backs because I didn't look that closely, but the fronts were made to look like they had gone through a thousand washings.

Though in all my years I have never seen anything fade

Sharon Bouchard's column is published quite as symmetrically in such a pattern as that. Leave it to the teenagers to fall for something like that. I guess I shouldn't be too critical of teenagers considering that it was a teenager who invented blue jeans in the first place. Levi Strauss was only 17 years old when he arrived in San Francisco in the 1850s.

Blue jeans were made to look like the ones I used to throw out.

Already a tailor by trade Levi set up a business of selling canvas to be used for tents and covered wagons. This was the middle of the gold rush era and his business flourished.

Strauss noticed that miners seemed to go through their trousers, literally and quickly, so he stitched some of his heavy-duty canvas into overalls. In spite of the fact that the material was really coarse and very stiff, the pants held up so well that Levi was in great demand to make as many as he could.

In the early 1860s he replaced the canvas with the much softer denim. Denim was a neutral color and Strauss discovered that by dying the pants indigo blue the dirt and stains wouldn't show as badly. This was a man after my own heart.

Cowboys of the era loved the blue jeans, but they wanted them to fit as snugly as possible so they would actually sit in a horse-watering trough to soak the pants then lay in the sun to shrink-dry the material on the body. I guess stone-washed isn't so farfetched after all.

Strauss was a practical type of tailor rather than a fashion guru. but he did make changes to the blue jeans that became as much fashion as useful. In 1873 Levi added copper rivets to the pockets because he noticed that the weight of the tools the miners carried caused the pocket seams to rip.

Strauss also noticed that because the miners spent a lot of time in a squat position as they panned for gold, the crotch of their pants tended to rip out. A rivet was added to this location too, but even though it did hold the seam together, it proved to be quite unpopular.

The miners of that era unencumbered by the etiquette of underwear, found that squatting too near a campfire heated the rivet and caused some pretty serious burns. Ouch! The crotch rivet was quickly abandoned.

Pocket rivets remained in place until 1937, when complaints of a different nature were voiced. By then blue jeans were being worn by boys to school and the back-pocket rivets were scratching and gouging the wooden chairs and benches because little boys have a tendency to squirm around a bit. Thus, the end of the back-pocket rivet, at least for a while.

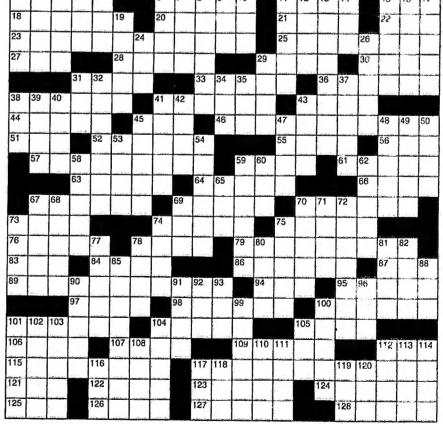

Blue jeans, strictly utilitarian, first became a fashion in 1935 when an advertisement appeared in Vogue magazine featuring two society ladies in snug-fitting jeans, kicking off a fad called "western chic".

That fad was minor compared to the one that erupted out of the designer jeans competition of the 1970s. The humble pants invented by Levi Strauss intended for work became the costume of play, creating a multimilliondollar industry. At the height of the designer jeans war, Calvin Klein jeans, for instance, despite their high $50 price tag (or maybe because of it), were selling at a rate of 250,000 per week.

The industry has come a long way since Levi Strauss first sewed up a pair of blue jeans, but the way I see it, they are one item of clothing that will never fade from style.

Under the direction of Moderator Norman K. Ferguson, Jr., the thirty voters who assembled at the Town House worked their way through the 45 proposed articles. Re-elected was the evening's story, as Scott Gould was returned to the Selectboard for a three-year term, as was longtime Superintending School Committee Member Debbie Barlow, Clem Worcester will remain as clerk, tax collector and treasurer for another year. All money budget items were passed as recommended by the selectboard. School Superintendent James Hodgkin explained the school budget. Voters did question the methods of disposing of tax-acquired property, and by vote chose not to discuss proposition #1 in the general election. Attending the meeting were news reporters from the Sun/Journal and The Bethel Citizen.

Earlier the same evening, the selectboard held their monthly meeting, this time at the Town House rather than at the Town Office. The board heard reports from the town clerk as well as Tri-Town Solid Waste and Recycle Center Board Member Bob Fortin. He reported that income from recycled goods was improving. this year. He and his brother Dan spent several days scouting the woods in the local area for moose, both before the season started and then the first couple days into the week of open season. Although there were numerous moose signs, they didn't catch sight of their prey. Finally, on Thursday that week, they spotted a large bull on the pipeline near the Grover Hill Road. Only trouble was, the moose was so far away, he was out of rifle range; luckily, they were able to sneak undetected by the moose about half the distance from the road. There was a rise in the terrain that screened them from the moose's sight until they crept to the top of the rise. Then, they both shot at the same its blustery winds, and scattered leaves upon the ground. Thankfully, there is still plenty of sunshine to at least create the illusion of warmth, even though we've all had to turn up our furnaces or stoves to heat our homes.

Firstly, the correct times for the Albany Youth Group meetings are Fridays, 6 to 8 p.m. and, the last Fridays of the month from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. Sorry to Holle, Fernand and the kids for the incorrect times in last week's column.

We had three (count them: three) treaters show up at our with their tractor winch, they home on Sunday — all siblings with their dad ready to pull them all back into formation when necessary. We haven't seen any signs of vandalism or prankster activity as of this writing.

We hope that everyone was able to get out and vote on Tuesday.

Best wishes for a happy and safe week. God Bless and

Oct. 16, Dale and Kitty Nelson took Albert and me to Portland to the Bugaboo Creek Restaurant where we met Cheryl and Paul Barnard, Josh, Jenna and Lindsey who flew there from Seaford, Va. for the day to have dinner with us. Sharon Berman and Nowal Traish from Belmont, Mass., also met us there. Albert Nelson Jr. also joined us. This was to honor Albert Nelson, Sr.'s birthday. It was a wonderful get-together and meal, but you know what? After the meal, he went out to stretch his legs and when the moose sing "Happy Birthday" to him, he was gone, so they looked at me and clapped and sang and put the little brown cake with candle in front of me and said I had to kiss the moose. And so I did, but I felt awfully stuhad their camera right handy. Anyway, it was a real fun day. Thanks, kids. You're all great.

When you read this, the voting will be all over. Aren't you glad?

Laurie Wilson of Sumner had a coclear implant surgery, which is an implanted device with an external mini-computpid and silly. I'm glad no one er called a sound processor, at Tufts New England Medical Center in Boston on Oct. 15. The processor translates the surrounding sounds into signals that can be sent to the hearing nerves and then recognized by the brain as sound. The processor and implant successfully bypass the part of the auditory system that is damaged. She will, hopefully, soon be able to relearn to hear and recognize sounds, voices and words. Laurie and her family thank everyone who has prayed, sent cards, visited and brought food to them. Continued prayers will be appreciated.

We had a good group of both broom sweeps clean, but it Girl and Boy Scouts. Scouting takes an old one to get into the is a good way to teach our children respect and patriotism. We asked the older scouts to write what freedom means to them. Ten of the older scouts and six of the younger scouts turned in some very good thoughts on freedom and patriotism. Some wrote about our soldiers in Iraq. We as a small town have six of our boys over in Iraq.

The following 10 statements were turned in by Scout Troop

"The definition of freedom is to be free. To make your own choices and decisions. Like the U.S. military is fighting for freedom for Iraq right now."

"A patriot is someone who fights for freedom for their country. They do the best they can for their country and I really respect that they are doing this."

"Freedom to vote, and to move from state to state, freedom of speech. Patriotism is in the Memorial Day parade, respecting our veterans."

"Patriots are fighters of wars to defend the country, with honor and justice for all people. Freedom is to be free, like the United States. Not for only one person, but for all."

"Freedom is the freedom of speech, you can say anything Freedom is free because there you want and do anything is no 'I' in freedom. I'm proud you want. Patriotism is helping the community and doing good things for other people."

"Freedom is all of our constitutional rights which we value the right to us to be free, and everyday. Patriotism is fighting for what you believe."

'We care very much for our soldiers in Iraq. We know and the brave. Never forget 9/11." pray that they will make it out alive and form peace with the Islamics. The qualities in 133: them remind me of famous people, everyday people."

"It must take a lot of courage and heart to be over in Iraq and being shot at, and having the chance of being the next American casualty. If I had to go to Iraq and fight, I would go and fight with honor. I would

Patriotism to me is to be in a war to defend our rights and freedoms. Patriot is a fighter who defends the US. Freedom is to be free. Like the United States of America. Freedom is a constitutional right because everyone is free in a way. to be an American, where at least I know I'm free, and really can't forget the men and women who died, who gave I stand straight and tall, to be who I am destined to be. Alice Hoyt News from Mrs. Nieberle: Well Columbus Day weekend is over Fryeburg Fair. It was a beautiful, sunny weekend and then on Monday, Columbus Day, it became cold and windy. We had our children and grandchildren with friends come for a visit for the long weekend. Out to the garden they went to bring home their favorite pumpkin. In the farm stand a couple from London came to New England to see the foliage and the colors were awesome.

While waiting on a customer I heard a thump, and after looking out the door, noticed a lot of cars stopping and people walking toward a red car that had gone off Route 26 into the woods. The car snapped off two trees and they landed on the car. Soon State Troopers and an ambulance were on the scene. They took a woman to the hospital. Hopefully, she is fine. She was lying on the ground but was speaking.

Matt Cushman, wife Nancy, and two children went to their camp in Upton for the weekend. Matt was going bird hunting. Mr. Chase came in to say hello and tell me his daughter's house will be on the Dudley Road just before the log house the Johnsons people get Mafter me if I don't have any in, so here goes.

I have my bulbs into the ground thanks to Gerry Shimamura. It is a good thing I have great friends or nothing would get done. I haven't been able to get my back to cooperate since they took Vioxx off the market. I have a doctor's appointment in November and will have to discuss other options I guess. After Dr. Stuer's article on acupuncture maybe I ought to try that.

Gerry Shimamura also took me to Norway, Thursday, to get my flu shot and, after doing some shopping, treated me to a Yankee pot roast dinner at a local restaurant, It was very good and the meat was certainly plentiful. I brought some home to eat later and share a small bit with Princess and Jilly. It is hard to find something Jilly will eat. She is almost eighteen and thinks don't know, as she has very few teeth. I buy her soft food which she doesn't particularly like, and I soften the dry stuff, but she doesn't care much for that either. She is skeleton thin but is on thyroid medication for an overactive thyroid returned home from the hosand that is supposedly what pital last week. keeps her thin. I think she is just incredibly fussy.

I have decided I am not watching television until the elections are over. It was bad enough listening to the candidates telling half truths and negative comments, but when in a lot of candy. they showed a bear being shot, that was the last straw.

I recognize the need to control the animals but I don't want to be the one to do it, and I definitely don't want to watch anyone else do it, either; and, since I can't get the channel changed in time to stop the ad, I decided my life would go better without any television. It is bad enough that I have to listen to all this stuff on my answering machine that I don't want. I have yet to find a way to skip messages with this answering machine I have; so, in order to delete them I have to listen to them. I don't think it is working quite right but it is part of the portable phone system, so I can't change it. Needless to say, although I do not like to wish time away, I will be glad when the elections are over.

The last supper/dance of the season was held in October with a good attendance and will continue in the spring.

Plans are for an initiation ceremony in the near future. Besides the newest members there are some others who have never been initiated. It would be helpful if they would contact the secretary, Olive Risko, so we can try to get everyone up to date.

The Post members are planning a Veterans Day observance on Nov. 11 at the hall to which the public is invited. The Unit will be providing doughnuts and coffee.

As in the past several years, the auxiliary is again taking orders for Christmas light bulbs for the three trees at the Legion grounds. Money realized will be used for various benefits to veterans such as Christmas gift shops at Togus and the Veterans Home, birthday party at the Veterans Home, etc. For two dollars each anyone may purchase bulbs in memory of. or in honor of, a veteran and members of a veteran's family. Contact active members to contribute.

Two Legion members who recently passed away had wives who are members of the auxiliary. A contribution was made to Bethel Rescue in memory of Murry Cummings and another to the Telstar Scholarship Fund in memory of Harry Swan.

One of the newer members, Kelly Bickford, is now on duty in Iraq. She had been collecting comfort items to send to Iraq before she was called to active duty. They are still being collected at the Legion Hall where a list of appropriate items is available, and they will continue to be sent. Anyone who would like to contribute is invited to do so.

At the latest meeting, some students who attended Boys State and Girls State in June were invited to a dinner along Kumaki, Erika Lindstrom and in relation to the Vietnam with their parents, to report on their experiences at Maine Maritime Academy for the boys and Husson College for the girls. Ashley DeFlumiere and Meagan Bailey gave Alex Helms also seemed to and all had gained knowledge

My Grandfather used to say "If you do something nice for someone it will come back to you." At Norway Savings Bank we believe in that philosophy — of giving back to the communities we serve. We also believe that your money should stay right here in Maine where it belongs. We invest in local schools and local businesses, and we support good deeds in Maine. And, as one of our ways to say thank you to customers, we'll make a $50 donation in your name to your favorite Maine charity when you open a Reality Checking Account this fall. Because at Norway Savings Bank, we believe that one good deed deserves another.

Before Buying a Home!

Where do you start when you are ready to buy home? Before you begin looking for a home, you have to make some decisions. You need to decide what is important to you when purchasing your home. Before starting out on your home search it is good idea to sit down and develop a list of what is nportant and what would you like in your new home. Your list could include schools, neighbor hood, amenities, number of bedrooms, number of baths, a basement, a separate dining room, 2-story family room or foyer, one level ranch plan, master bedroom on the main level, special financing, seller willing to cover closing costs and the list goes on

An experienced buyer real estate agent can nelp you through the process. There is no such thing as a perfect house, therefore once you have developed your list you should begin to prioritize it You can prioritize into, must have, should have and would be nice to have. By having a clear understanding what you want in your new home and the priority of those items, you will be in a much petter position to decide whether you want to put ar offer on a house you see and like. It is also a good idea to consider whether you want to purchase a new or pre-owned home.
